Tasks:

1. The teacher divides the children into teams and distributes the relevant constructive material.
2. The teacher distributes the children's tasks in the teams: two will make a model of their family, and the others will take family photos in turns.
3. On the plate, the children make a model of their family, using human figures, and then present it to others.
4. Photographers compare the two families, pointing out similarities and differences between them.
5. Photographers and children arrange families as a photo and "photograph" them as a souvenir.
6. The teacher sets the task to exchange roles: the photographers make a model of their families, and the other two children become photographers.
7. Tasks are repeated with new roles.

Resources for each team:

- Two plates with dimensions 12x6.
- Human figures: 2 men, 2 women, 6 (or more) children - boys and girls, photographer.
- Figure of a camera
